

Call for Expression of Interest

Workshop on Academic Research

KATHMANDU

Date: 9-10 June 2018

Association for Nepal and Himalayan Studies (ANHS) Kathmandu Research Center and Dignity Initiative are pleased to announce a call for aspiring researchers in Kathmandu to participate in a two-day workshop on 'Academic Research.' This workshop is supported by Fulbright Commission under its Fulbright Specialist Program.

The workshop will bring together 20-25 graduates to discuss the essence of academic research with a particular focus on social issues.

Prof. Steven Folmar of Wake Forest University, US will be facilitating the workshop.

Eligibility Criteria

- The applicants should be holding at least bachelor's degree; master's degree or above is preferred,
- Priority could be given to the graduates representing marginalized groups,
- Applicants with proven research experience or strong interest in research will be considered for the workshop,
- A short paragraph about your motivation to apply for this research workshop clearly explaining why you are willing to take part in the workshop is required.

Upon completion of the workshop, participants will be provided a certificate of participation. Mentorship support will also be provided.

Interested applicants should apply online by Thursday 7 June, 2018. Click here to fill up an application form.

Workshop Fee:

A nominal fee of NPR 500.00 will be collected from each participant as commitment fee. Couples of scholarships are also available for needy participants.

Contact:

Dignity Initiative (Rup Sunar)
Anamnagar-32, Kathmandu

Tel: 01-4255099/9849208385

Email: info.dignityinitiative@gmail.com